DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The replacement drawings were received on 12/27/04. These drawings are approved.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japanese Patent 09325165 to Oji in view of Japanese Patent 03122544 to Shimizu et al [hereinafter Shimizu].

Oji discloses a device for testing a material that changes shape when at least one of an electric field and a magnetic field is applied, the device comprising:

a generator for generating at least one of the electric and magnetic fields and applying the field(s) to the material to produce a change in shape or size of the material; and an optical detection means comprising a laser, photoelectric element, and an analyzer unit configured to determine the change in shape or size of the material based on the signals from the photoelectric element.

Oji does not disclose the optical detection means comprising a camera configured to capture an image of the material after the field(s) is applied, and an analyzer unit configured to determine the change in shape based on the image.

Shimizu discloses a device for measuring a change in shape or size of a material by using optical detection means comprising a laser, a camera, and an analyzing unit that receives images from the camera to obtain an image of the material and determine the amount of warping of the material (see figure 1).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Oji by replacing the optical detection means of Oji with optical detection means as taught by Fujita, in order to obtain an image of the material as it changes shape and the change in shape is measured.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-21 and 23-26 are allowed.

4. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

The prior art of record does not disclose or suggest the following in combination with the remaining limitations of the claims:

A device for testing a material that changes shape when at least one of a magnetic field and an electric field is applied, the device comprising a generator for generating at least one of the magnetic and electric fields and applying the at least one of the magnetic and electric fields to the material; and at least one thermal sensor for detecting a temperature change of the material (see claim 1).

The Examiner's statement of reasons for allowance for claims 6, 7, 11, 12, and 19 is presented in the last Office action, dated 9/23/04.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
